

DriveWatcher accelerates the delivery of TV and radio voiceovers

Evenbytes is a cloud software company, and developer of DriveWatcher, a SaaS platform that helps customers who store their files in Google Drive to monitor all changes recorded in the documents. It is a smart notification service.

The challenge

Voice Imaging was faced with the need to speed up the delivery of voiceovers for many radio and television clients, and had to find a solution that would allow it to save all the time it was investing in notifying each client that the voiceover jobs were complete. At the same time, optimize the organization of the documents and deliver the content in a personalized way for each client.

The solution

The company stores all content in Google Drive and then uses DriveWatcher to set up custom templates with each client's branding and configure automatic notifications with multiple email addresses. Each time Voice Imaging completes a voiceover, recipients automatically get an alert in their email, Google Chat, or browser that the job has been completed.

The result

Thanks to DriveWatcher, Voice Imaging has experienced a significant time-saving and more professional presentation of its dubbing services. This has resulted in a notable improvement in both efficiency and the quality of the delivered work. Furthermore, communication with clients has become faster and more accurate, eliminating the need for intermediate steps to send or receive information.

“ I build my folder on Google Drive, then go to DriveWatcher where I develop a custom template for their notifications. I can add as many email addresses to notify as many people as needed. So all I have to do is place the audio file in their folder, and DriveWatcher does the rest. It's been such a time saver for me and looks very professional. I love the product, and couldn't do without it. ”
